

THE UNITED STATES CAN AFFORD TO WAIT

President Wilson Not Disturbed By the Mexican Situation--Villa Bows to Command of His Chief.

Washington, March 2. That Gen. Villa has acknowledged the authority of Gen. Carranza as his chief and will not permit the American commission to examine the body of William S. Benton until the Washington Government has consulted Carranza was the explanation made by President Wilson today of the latest phase of the Mexican situation.

The President told earlier that the desire of the commissioners to get further instructions from Washington as well as orders from Villa himself, had necessitated a postponement, but Mr. Wilson takes it for granted that the commissioners will start in a few days.

"United States Can Wait."

Asked whether, in view of the new developments, a change of policy was intended by the United States immediately the President pointed out that a country of the size and power of the United States could afford to wait just as long as it pleased; that nobody doubted its power and nobody doubted that Huerta was eventually to retire; that there need be no hesitation in forming the judgment that what the United States wished to accomplish in Mexico would be accomplished, but that those people who were in haste to have things done were forgetting that they would have to do them themselves, that they would have to contribute brothers and sons and sweethearts to do it, if they wanted something done right away. If they were willing to wait, the President indicated, such a step might not be necessary.

The President was referring, it was presumed, to speeches in Congress, demanding radical action of some kind, or armed intervention, which he seemed to deplore.

Next Step to be Taken by Others.

The White House view is that, strictly speaking, there is no right of international law by which the United States could insist on acting for Great Britain, although the American Government has been asked by the Powers to use its good offices for the protection of foreigners. It, however, England should not ask the United States to pursue the matter into further complications with Carranza, the American Government would not feel obliged to go beyond an investigation of the facts through its own consular representatives.

The next step, it would appear from the official viewpoint, is some explanation from Great Britain about how far she expects the United States to push the Benton case. On the other hand, there is every reason to believe that Carranza will be expected in the near future to give the American Government further assurances that all foreigners, regardless of whether their Governments have recognized Huerta or not, will be safe in northern Mexico.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador and Senator Riano, the Spanish Ambassador, conferred with Sec. Bryan, but the subject of the discussion was not divulged.

Huerta's latest note, asking the United States to reconsider the lifting of the arms embargo, was expected here today.

DISPUTES MONROE DOCTRINE

Latest Attitude of Gen. Carranza Seems to Question It--Situation May Become Acute.

Washington, March 2. Gen. Carranza's prestige in the eyes of the American Government and the future of the Constitutional movement so far as the United States is concerned, depend to a large extent today upon the recognition or repudiation by the Constitutional chief of the principle that the United States is the virtual guardian of the interests of all foreigners in Mexico.

The situation created by Carranza's refusal to give the United States Government information about the killing of a British subject, William S. Benton, coupled with his declaration that Great Britain, herself, should address him on the question, is regarded by Administration officials as a serious one. They feel that some of the underlying ideas of American foreign policy evolved from the Monroe doctrine have been questioned by the Constitutional chief.

Specifically, the American Government had formally asked the Powers of the world to give it a free hand in dealing with the Mexican problem, and incidentally had undertaken to obtain security and protection for foreigners in those parts of Mexico where foreign Governments had no consulates.

A test of Carranza's attitude is involved in connection with the arrangements which the American Government is seeking to make for the examination of Benton's body at Chihuahua. The United States desires that British and American representatives shall view the corpse. In company with physicians, Gen. Villa has acceded to the request.

On the other hand, Carranza has pointed out to the State Department that he, too, must be consulted about foreign affairs. The Washington Government now is consulting Carranza if the latter permits the expedition to go to Chihuahua he will be acquiescing in the right of the United States to make inquiry about the welfare of British subjects.

A flat refusal of the American Government's request for the examination of the body would render the situation acute. Officials always are unwilling to discuss hypothetical cases, but it was apparent today that there would be an insistence on a complete explanation of the Benton execution.

Sec. Bryan had an engagement today to meet the House Committee on Foreign Affairs to give them information about the Mexican situation, as he did the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations last week. By keeping the congressional committees in charge of foreign matters well supplied with information, it is the hope of the Administration that Congress will leave the Executive Department of the Government free to handle the questions.

What Is Happening in the Harbor Town.

The easterly storm on Sunday night though of short duration, was the most severe experienced here for years, and houses that withstood the furious wind and heavy rain without showing signs of moisture inside were the exception. The long pier of Fiske Brothers and also that leading to the Hotel Parkfield were considerably damaged by the high sea, the latter being put wholly out of commission for the present. Two coasting schooners and half a dozen fishing vessels in the harbor weathered the gale with out trouble.

Fire yesterday morning practically wiped out the drying shed of the Parker and Webster box factory at Exeter and endangered other structures in its vicinity. The loss will be fully $4,000.

The residence of Harry Center, adjoining the shed, was badly scorched and members of the Center family were compelled to flee their homes for a time. The factory of the Exeter Umbrella Company was also threatened for a time, but was saved through the efforts of the firemen.

The consumed structure was 50 by 80 feet, two stories in height and was built of wood. It contained much finished material including shingles, boards, moulding, and sheathing.

DRYDEN DEFEATED IN HANDICAP MATCH

John Bruce, a Swedish wrestler, sprung a surprise on Bill Dryden on Monday evening and when Bill wrote up he was pinned to the mat for his first defeat of the year. Dryden was scheduled to meet Charlie Evans, the southern middle weight champion, but Evans was hurt in New York, and Bruce, who does not speak a word of English, was sent on to take his place.

The second match was between Bruce and Hendrich Hugin, a German heavy weight. They wrestled here some weeks ago and it was the last match seen here, but Hugin agreed to make it a handicap match and throw Bruce twice within an hour and when they appeared in the ring it looked as though he could easily do it. The Swede, however, proved to be a very clever man, with a happy faculty of wiggling out of the worst holes. He was on the offense all of the time until the last and Dryden became rather careless about covering. The result was that Bruce suddenly swung into a double arm bar and had Dryden fighting. After a struggle he put

MASONS ON FRATERNAL
VISIT TO BOSTON LODGE

Nearly one hundred and fifty members of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, A. F. and A. M., paid a visit on Monday evening to the St. John's Lodge No. 1 of Boston and it was a very pleasant occasion.

The party left this city on a special train at 5:30 and on their arrival in Boston were met by a delegation of the Boston lodge and escorted to their hall, where there was a large gathering of Masons present to greet them and they did everything possible to make them at home.

Degree work was shown and this was followed by an excellent banquet. The return trip was made leaving Boston at midnight. The officers in charge were Master George J. Googing, Senior Warden, A. Thurston Parker and Junior Warden, Scott Somerville.

AUTO SHOW WILL BE A BIG EVENT

For the first time since the advent of the automobile, this city is to have an auto show and from the plans laid down at present, it will be the best affair of its kind ever held in this state or east of Boston.

The big floor space of the Portsmouth Motor Mart on Fleet street, will be available for the exhibit. Every dealer in the city will be at the show, with all the new models, and there will be over thirty odd cars on the floor, giving an opportunity to see all the new models, even before the Boston show, which does not open until next week. All of the dealers have rushed their shipments in time for the show.

CANNOT BLAME LOCAL PAPERS

The Manchester Mirror which last week published the fact that during the illness of the late Percival M. Robinson his temperature jumped to 130 degrees, now seek to get out of making such a radical statement, by stating that it was published in the Portsmouth papers. No such statement was published in the local papers, and no reference was made at all to the matter other than a genuine expression of sorrow at his death, which reached this city of a brilliant business man and a good citizen. The statement was first published in the Mirror, and it was so absurd, that nobody took the trouble to deny it, taking it for granted that it was a typographical error.

HIGHEST TEMPERATURE ON ENTIRE EAST COAST

Washington, March 2.—The severest storm of the winter raged today from Eastport, Me., to Savannah, Ga., while a cold wave rolled down from the Great Lakes country overspread the Atlantic states as far south as Florida. Lowest temperatures over recorded in March were registered in Charleston, S. C., Macon, Ga., and other points in the southeast.

Centering over southern New England today, the storm brought heavy snows north of Maryland and caused shifting gales all along the Atlantic Coast. No marine disasters had been reported up to noon.

Still colder weather in New England was predicted tonight, but a warmer wave moving on from the Plains States today promised relief for the entire East by late tomorrow and Wednesday.

N. H. COLLEGE HELPING THE
DAIRYMAN WITH HIS BUTTER

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., March 2.—The dairymen of the state are just now getting the benefit of Prof. Fred Rasmussen's expert knowledge of their business. Prof. Rasmussen, who heads the dairy department here, is also secretary of the Granite State Dairymen's Association which recently held its annual show at Concord. Prof. Rasmussen has just written a letter to each exhibitor at that show, sending him the score card of his product as made out by the judge and explaining to him what the faults disclosed are and how they may best be remedied.

This work has never been done before in this state and is part of the systematic endeavor of the New Hampshire College authorities to raise the standard of dairymen in this state until it shall be second to none.

The following is a typical score card for butter. The letter which follows it was written to the exhibitor. The second letter is another sample of the sort of communication through which Prof. Rasmussen is reaching the men who are interested and want to know.

Letter Accompanying Above Score Card.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find score card of your butter exhibited in Class 2 at the Granite State Dairymen's Show at Concord.

You will note that the judge has marked you off 7 1-2 points on flavor, calling attention to the butter having a stable flavor, which, of course, makes it unclean in flavor. A stable flavor is quite common at this time of the year in farm butter, due to the fact that the cows, in many cases, are not thoroughly cleaned previous to milking. It is necessary to carefully wipe the cow's flanks and udder with a damp cloth in order to avoid any possible contamination. Also, very often at this time of the year, where the barns are not well ventilated, especially in the morning, you will find a very strong odor in the barn. Such an odor is sufficient to taint the milk at the time of milking, although it may be removed from the barn shortly after the milking is done. The judge has marked off your butter one point on salt and checked it as "undissolved." Perhaps your market requires a very high salt. As regards this point, however, butter should not have salt in undissolved condition as it takes away from the palatability of the product.

We were very glad to have you send us a sample of butter at the Granite State Dairy Show and have the judge make comments. If we can be of any further use to you, we shall be pleased to do anything that we can.

Very truly yours,
Fred Rasmussen, Secretary.
Another Sample Letter.

Dear Sirs:

Enclosed you will find score card for your butter exhibited in Class 2 at the Granite State Dairymen's Show. Also enclosed and ribbon for third prize in this class.

The judge has marked your butter off 6 1-2 points on flavor and marked it "high acid." This would indicate that your cream was just a little bit sourer than was desirable. There is more danger of spoiling the quality of butter by having the cream too sour than not sour enough. If the cream is too sour, it will leave this high acid flavor in the butter and the butter would also have poor keeping quality. You will note that you tied with the Upland Farm, of Peterboro, N. H., for third prize.

I am very glad that you exhibited butter at our Dairy Show. If we can be of any further use to you, we shall be pleased to do anything that we can.

Very truly yours,
Fred Rasmussen, Secretary.

CHINAMAN'S OATH
Swearing in Court Means Something Definite for Him

A Chinese oath was recently administered in British Columbia, with all the ceremonial accompaniments that are observed in China when an oath is taken in court. Seven Chinamen were charged with robbing and one, Moh Quong, a witness was to testify.

The oath was taken on the lawn at the rear of the courthouse, in the presence of the full court and many interested spectators. It was written in the Chinese language, to which the witness affixed his signature. The charge against the seven men was read to the witness by the interpreter, whereupon the witness took the following oath:

"Being a true witness I shall enjoy happiness and my sons and grandsons will prosper forever. If I falsely accuse I shall die on the spot. Heaven will punish me, earth will destroy me, I shall suffer adversity and all my offspring will be exterminated. In burning this oath I humbly submit to the will of heaven, which has brilliant eyes to see.

After the witness had signed his name to the oath, a young white duck with red comb and yellow legs was brought forth. Three pink sticks and a pair of Chinese candles were stuck in the ground and lighted near the block of wood. Next the oath was read by the interpreter to the witness, after which the latter wrapped the piece of paper on which the oath was written round the neck of the duck. The witness then laid the duck on the block and chopped his head off at a single blow. After that he set fire to the oath with a candle and held it up.

It was wholly consumed. Youth's Companion.

Domestic Science Class at the Farragut School Clever Cooks.

Mayor Yeaton, the members of the Council, and Sept. Pringle, were the guests on Saturday noon of the cooking class of the sixth grade of the Farragut school. This is a class of about eight girls who have been given a course in cooking by Mrs. Martha Watson, a teacher. A gas stove equipped borrowed from the Summer school has been installed and in the short time the girls have been under instruction they have shown wonderful improvement.

The table was most attractively laid and at each place a very pretty place card, with the name, and to the card, which was in the form of a holder, a number of pieces of candy, also made by the young ladies. The menu consisted of meat pie, hot rolls, lemon jelly, mince, Spanish cream, coffee and cake, and it was very nicely served and everything was delicious.

Everything, even the delicious rolls, were cooked by the girls under the supervision of Mrs. Watson, and Miss Milburn. The young ladies were all in apron and caps, also made by themselves, and they made a great impression on their guests.

The dinner served to illustrate what can be done with domestic science in the schools.

HOT TEA BREAKS
A COLD—TRY THIS

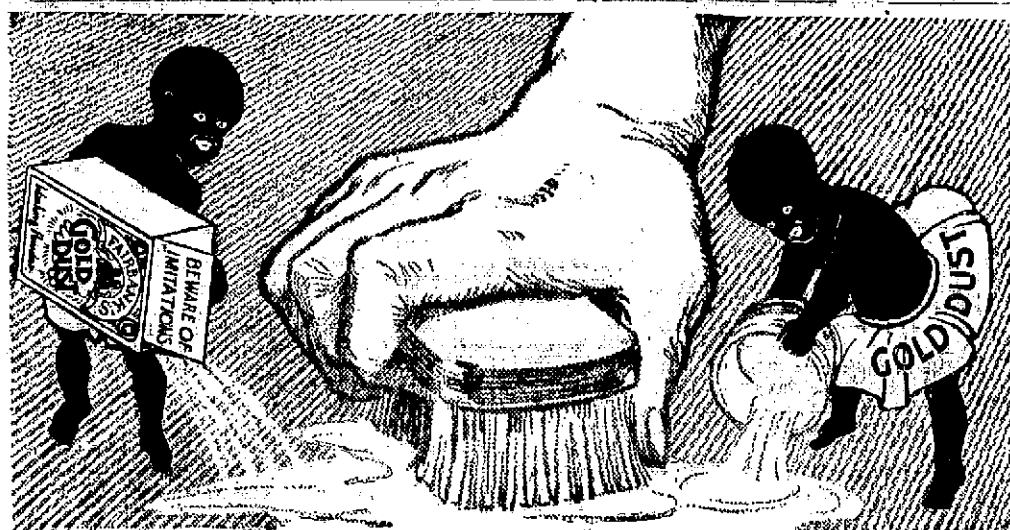

Got a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

Take a look at The Herald's classified column every day. It may be of interest to you.

TO CHANGE PLACE OF EXHIBIT

The original intention of the Highway Department was to use the Armory as an exhibition hall, but owing to the heavy machinery, which will be exhibited it was found impracticable to do this. The stone ware house of the Concord Belling Company has been engaged in its place and promises to be an ideal building for the purpose. Three floors are available and this gives considerable more floor space than the Armory. A freight elevator is installed in the building and this will be an aid in placing the heavy machinery.

The Cry of Non-Employment.

There is a wide discrepancy between the optimism of President Wilson, Secretary Redfield and other members of the administration and the cry of unemployment that arises from various parts of the country. Much has been heard about the armies of unemployed in the big cities for many weeks past, and if all the reports are true there is certainly a bad condition of things. The chances are that the reports are exaggerated. The fact that the cry has been raised and that different bodies are discussing plans for relief is calculated to encourage many of the normally shiftless and improvident to fall into the ranks of the unemployed and claim that their predicament is due to conditions and not to themselves.

Without doubt there is some hardship in the large cities, as there is every winter, but whether there is so much more than usual is to be questioned. A few nights ago a horde of men entered, or attempted to break into, a Brooklyn church, claiming that they needed it as a place in which to sleep. But where have these men been sleeping? If they are residents of the city they certainly have sleeping places of some kind, however hard pressed they may be by the lack of employment for the time being. It looks as if they had been moved by the agitation over non-employment and thought it a good time to make a demonstration. There are always plenty of men ready for that sort of thing when the signs are right, however wide the opportunities for employment may be.

For such unemployment and suffering as there may be, all proper means for relief should be brought to bear, but it will be well to avoid hysteria and hasty and ill-advised action. At a national conference on non-employment held in New York a few days ago a resolution was passed calling upon Congress to establish a "bureau of distribution" in connection with the department of labor, with power to open employment exchanges throughout the country to supplement the work done by state and municipal bureaus. The business of these agencies would be to furnish information regarding the chances for employment in different parts of the country.

It is to be doubted whether anything of this sort is needed. The open season is almost here and there will soon be opportunities for all who are willing to work. The situation, it is safe to believe, is not so desperate as represented.

Some men are finding it hard to reach a satisfactory conclusion on the tariff. One day they see it ruining American industries by flooding the markets with cheap foreign goods, and the next they are alarmed because importations are too small to provide the necessary revenue. Among all the laws with which the country is so liberally supplied there is, happily for many individuals, none against worrying and fault-finding.

A New York man who could not read or write made a fortune in hogs and has just died, leaving an estate of $1,000,000 to be used for educational purposes. He wants the boys and girls to have a better chance than he had, yet few of them with any amount of education will equal his achievement in what the world calls success.

Vocational training in the schools is undoubtedly a good thing within proper bounds, and yet there are those who object. A Boston man says he would rather have his boy learn to read and write than to spend ten hours making a hammer handle. The school authorities will probably retort that the boy can do both.

The tone of the press indicates that not everybody is satisfied with the turn affairs have taken in the Becker case. The time is coming when some matters in this country will have to be handled differently or there will be trouble.

Of course, the workmen's compensation act in Massachusetts does not apply to farm hands. They can take care of themselves. In the meantime it is still in order to urge the boys to stick to the farm.

Whether radium will cure cancer or not, all will appreciate the generosity of Mr. DuPont, the powder manufacturer, who has given $360,000 worth of radium ore to be reduced and used for the public benefit.

A Pennsylvania woman who was convicted in 1901 of murdering her husband has been pardoned, and a dispatch says she was secretly removed from the prison. Why secretly?

President Huerta of Mexico is in sore straits to increase the strength of his army so that the advance of the rebels toward the capital can be effectively resisted. This edifice contains, among other treasures, an altar consisting of over a ton of solid silver, and fears are widely expressed as to what would occur to the property of the church if the rebels should gain control of the city.

GIRLS! STOP WASHING THE HAIR WITH SOAP

Soap Dries Your Scalp Causing Dandruff, then Hair Falls Out—Try this Next Time

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the scalp and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair" Cleanser. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt, and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong, and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

BOYS DROWN IN SALEM RIVER

One Goes Down in Effort to Save Life of His Playmate.

Salem, Mass., March 2—George Call and Charles Powers, schoolboys, who were playing on an ice cake in the North river, fell into the water and were drowned.

Call, who could swim, tried to save Powers, who could not swim, while the latter's mother and a group of schoolmates watched from the riverbank, unable to help.

(Working his way clear of the ice cake, Call grasped his sinking chum by the arm, but was then made helpless when Powers gripped him. Before assistance could reach them both boys sank. The bodies were recovered.

HOW TO CONTROL NEW ENGLAND MOTH-PESTS.

Certain Work Before April 1st Important. (Favorable Outlook for Lessening Depredations of Gipsy Moth If Careful Methods are Adopted.)

Washington, D. C., March 3—The depredations of the Gipsy and the Brown-tail moths on the fruit and shade trees of New England have not been so serious during the past season as in previous years. Diseases and introduced parasites have attacked the caterpillars of these moths and have caused at least a temporary check on two most dangerous pests. However, certain new territory has been infested and the Department of Agriculture still considers it of vital importance that aggressive measures be continued to control these dangerous insects. It is therefore now issuing Farmers Bulletin No. 564, entitled "The Gipsy Moth and the Brown-Tail Moth, With Suggestions for Their Control."

The Gipsy Moth is capable of causing enormous injury to tree growers. In the area in New England which has suffered most, thousands of trees are dead as a result of being deprived of their leaves by this pest. Apple and oak trees have been injured most. The caterpillars of these moths spread rapidly and in Europe where it has been longer in evidence it has become seriously injurious to many sections. The damage it causes is ordinarily not so severe as is that resulting from gipsy moth infestation because the brown-tail moth does not have so wide a range of food plants, and because the bulk of this feeding is done early in the season, so that the trees have an opportunity to recover before midsummer. In the territory where both insects exist the caterpillars of the gipsy moth supplement the work which is done by those of the brown tail moth and the injury is therefore greatly increased.

How to Destroy Gipsy Moth Egg Clusters.

One of the best methods of controlling the gipsy moth is to treat the egg clusters of the insect, between August 1st and April 1st, with cresote. A small amount of lamp black is added to discolor the treated eggs, and it is sold in the gipsy moth infested district under the name of gipsy moth cresote. It is applied with a brush and penetrates the cluster rapidly, destroying the eggs. Cresote may be obtained in small quantities from nearly all the large hardware or seed stores in the infested district, where it usually sells for about 35 cents a gallon. If secured in larger quantities a much lower price can be obtained.

Cut and Burn Winter Webs of Brown Tail Moth.

The brown tail moth can be controlled by cutting off its winter webs and burning them before the caterpillars begin to emerge in April. These webs should be destroyed by fire, for if they are simply cut from the tree and left on the ground the caterpillars will emerge and no benefit will result from the work which has been done.

In orchard practice it is sometimes inadvisable to cut the winter webs, for where an infestation is bad it is likely to leave a poorly shaped tree. Spraying in the spring is not a satisfactory remedy unless the infestation is very light, because the caterpillars, when they occur in large numbers, do not allow the tree to put out sufficient foliage to hold the spray material. The most effective method is to spray the trees before the middle of August, using from 8 to 10 pounds of arsenate of lead to 100 gallons of water. Before spraying operations of this sort are attempted care should be taken to determine whether the trees are well infested with egg masses of the brown tail moth, for if the

CURRENT OPINION

Men of Might in Finance Leading in Adjustments That Are Pending.

For about twenty years the business atmosphere has been filled with adjectives. Interests have been called "predatory" and "grasping." Corporations are said to have been "monopolistic." We have heard of the "powers that prey." A veritable arsenal of verbal attack has been created, and the projectile values in language have been used to the full. A word of such highly respectable antecedents as "trust" has descended from its ancient estate, and especially in its plural form is used for that which is held industrially unjustifiable.

It would be interesting, indeed, to trace the effect upon our language of the public discussion of commercial themes in recent years. It must be confessed that the combatants have dealt largely in abuse as well as argument and that the struggle has not always shown accurate knowledge either of the principles of industry or of the righteous obligations of business to the public.

Too much perhaps there has been the spirit on one side that "what is wrong" and the assertion on the other hand that "what is right." Big business has often failed to see that its methods have aroused a just popular resentment and that many of its past ideals and purposes were impossible and intolerable in a democracy. The men of financial and corporate power have had to learn that the will of the whole people is a supreme law to which their private interests must obediently bow.

The business conscience has itself awakened to a realization of wrongs committed in the name and on the alleged behalf of commerce and industry and will tolerate those wrongs no more. Even the men of might in finance are becoming men of light and leading in the necessary adjustments that are pending. The business conscientiousness is becoming less individual and more social—William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce.

Infestation is very slight it will be more satisfactory to cut and destroy the webs.

Burlap Bands Should Not be Applied Too Early in the Season.

Burlap bands, if not attached to the tree too early in the season, are an effective method of control for the Gipsy moth. If attached too early, however, before the brown-tail caterpillars have made their cocoons, the bands afford an excellent place for the cocoons. These caterpillars are poisonous and severe poisoning has resulted to workmen because the caterpillars accumulate under the burlap bands attached too early in the season.

The use of burlap bands is also expensive. However, if they are attached to the trees after June 15, they prove an effective method of control. The caterpillars seek shelter during hot sunny days and will therefore crawl beneath the band where they may be crushed each day. Ordinarily a strip of burlap about eight inches wide is placed loosely around the tree trunk and a piece of twine passed around the center and tied to hold it in place. After this is done, the top part of the burlap is folded down so that a double shelter is made beneath. The Department of Agriculture's new bulletin gives an illustration which shows the effectiveness of this method, when used at the proper time.

Early Spraying Sometimes Useful.

Early spraying in orchards will be found useful if only a few egg clusters are present. The most effective spray for the Gipsy moth is arsenate of lead paste applied to the foliage at the rate of 10 pounds to 100 gallons of water.

It is necessary that the treatment be thorough and the application even, if best results are to be secured. For small operations the ordinary orchard sprayer may be used with one or more lines of hose equipped with nozzles of the Vermorel or Bordeaux type. In case large shade trees on valuable park or woodland are to be treated, however, the use of a high power sprayer is more economical. The new bulletin describes satisfactory types of sprayers.

In case the infestation is more serious, a second spraying early in June will be found very satisfactory. In case where the infestation is severe, the egg clusters should be treated now before spring with the cresote mixture and this treatment should be followed by thorough spraying in the spring. Thoroughness is a prime essential if prompt results are to be secured.

The new bulletin also recommends the use of the tanglefoot band, which may be applied to the tree trunks after the bark has been scrapped so that the sticky material can be applied evenly. This method of treatment is described in detail in the bulletin. It also advises that in badly infested orchards the cresote mixture and the spray be followed up by the tanglefoot band.

Orchard infestations can be managed by following up these methods, and it will not require much additional expense or a great deal of work to protect the trees. In this statement it is assumed that the orchard is being cared for by standard methods in order to protect it from other injurious insects, and diseases, and it is improbable that these results can be brought about in neglected orchards or where the owners do not practice the best horticultural methods in handling their growing trees.

The proper method of handling the gipsy moth in any town, city, or park or on private estates, should be based on the infestation as determined by some one who is familiar with gipsy moth work, if the best results are to be secured at a minimum expense. Much energy and money may be wasted in applying remedies unless their application is based on a thorough knowledge of existing conditions. An owner of an infested estate should have an examination made by some qualified person who can give reliable recommendations as to treatment.

State Organizations Carry on Work.

Each of the New England states and New York are carrying on work for the control of these insects. The organization varies, as between the states, owing to differences in local conditions, but the same general local methods of work are employed. Particular information concerning local conditions may be obtained by communicating with the state officials in charge. Their addresses are as follows:

TUGS SEARCH COAST ALL DAY IN VAIN

Barges Break Away From Tug During Gale, and Feared Nine Men Are Lost.

Providence, R. I., March 2.—Nine men who were aboard the barges Frank Pendleton and Josephus are believed to have been lost off Fire Island lightship in last night's gale. The barges made up the tow of the tug Edgar F. Luckenbach, broke away from the tug during the terrific gale that was sweeping the coast. The tow was bound from this city to Norfolk. The Edgar F. Luckenbach, and her sister tug, the Edward Luckenbach, the latter being sent out from New Bedford today, searched the coast of Long Island all day today and had not returned to New Bedford tonight. No report of the barges having come ashore has been received and in the opinion of seafaring men there the barges which were both old craft, have gone to the bottom, carrying their crews. The Edgar F. Luckenbach is the same tug which lost the barges Undaunted and A. G. Rojas off Barnegat on December 25th, causing the death of eight men.

The tug and her tow made heavy weather up the coast and last night at the height of the gale the tug broke. The heavy seas and roaring gale quickly swept them out of the sight of the tug. On the Frank Pendleton were Captain Alex. Engblom of New York City, Albert Clark of Maine, 32, a cook, Arthur H. Humphries 50, and George Moser, 42, of New London. The latter two were deckhands. The Josephus carried five men. Captain Charles McInerney and four others of Philadelphia, whose names are not known.

A wireless message from the Fire

Island lightship notified the New York office of the Luckenbach Transportation Company of the loss of the barges. Frederick Macdonald, local agent of the company, at once made arrangements for a thorough search of the Sound. Tug Solicitor Captain Sullivan was sent out from Newport to intercept the Edward Luckenbach, which had started from New Bedford with a tow. The Solicitor caught the Luckenbach in Buzzard's Bay and the latter, after taking her barges back into New Bedford started out on the search.

Both Captain Engblom and Captain McInerney were well known, having worked as barge masters for many years. The barge, Frank Pendleton, has been carrying coal between Providence and southern ports for many years. The Josephus was making his first trip as the property of the Luckenbach company.

Captain Partridge who was in charge of the Edgar F. Luckenbach, succeeded Captain C. T. Knight who was relieved following the loss of the barges on December 25th.

YOU CAN'T EARN MONEY WHEN YOU'RE LAID UP

There are a lot of people in this town who cannot afford to be sick. Perhaps none of you feel that you can, but certainly some of you can't, so as soon as you are sick your wages stop, and worry and debt begins to pile up. The sensible thing for you to do as soon as you feel run down and worn out, no matter what the cause, is to take something just as quick as you can to build up strength and health. Make yourself more comfortable and provide against serious sickness.

We don't believe there is any other medicine made that will do as much towards saving your health and thus helping you save your money as Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is a medicine that gets right at the trouble and relieves it by toning the nerves, enriching the blood and giving new strength and health to the waste body. It doesn't do this by means of alcohol or habit forming drugs, because it contains none. Its strength and health building power is due to pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites, long endorsed by successful physicians, the one for its food value and the other for its tonic value. Here, for the first time they are combined, and the result is a real nerve, blood, and body-building medicine—a real strengthener that we are proud to tell you about. You don't need to hesitate in using it, because it doesn't do all that we say it will and satisfy you in every way, it will cost you nothing. If it doesn't make you strong and well again, come back and get your money. It will be given to you without word or question. GREAT ISSUES INVOLVED

Vow of Poverty Is Assailed In Suit Brought by Heirs of Fr. Worth.

Washington, March 2.—Upon the decision of the supreme court in a case to be considered this week may rest the future of every brotherhood and sisterhood of the Catholic church in the United States. The court will be called upon to decide whether the vows of poverty in these orders are against public policy, as recently decided by the United States Circuit Court of appeals of the eighth district.

The case in question arises out of the death of Fr. Worth, a member of the Order of St. Benedict, founded about 525 A. D. At the time of his death in 1901, he was in charge of the German Catholic church at Springfield, Minn.

Nearly fifty years before his death, he took the vows of the Benedictine society of chastity, poverty and obedience. He was then 23 years of age. The effect of the vow of poverty on his part was transferred to the order and that the order on its part became obligated to educate, maintain and support him for life.

Fr. Worth became a member of the St. Vincent Mission of Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, in 1846. Later he was made prior of a monastery in Kansas, and about 1887 went to Minnesota. During his life he had become well known as a member of the order, and he had been in possession of certain property. At the time of his death, he was in possession of some $5000 in addition to royalties from books he had written.

The probate court of Brown county, Minn., regarded his heirs as entitled to the property. After a series of contests with the order, the heirs succeeded in getting a decision from the United States circuit court that the vow of poverty was against public policy, and therefore void.

About 50,000 priests, brothers, and nuns will be affected by the decision, and it is probable that the title of the orders to their churches, colleges, schoolhouses, hospitals, and sanitariums in practically every state of the Union may be drawn into question. In the application for the supreme court to review the decision, attorneys for the order stated that, if the decision was carried out to its full extent, it might eventually dissolve and disintegrate the temporal organization of these orders. It was also pointed out that the decision might affect religious orders of the Episcopal church and some of the other Protestant churches.

KITTERY

Breezy Items From the Village Across the River.

An important event and one long anticipated by the parishioners of the Second Methodist church, occurred last evening, it being the occasion of the reopening of the vestry, which during the past few months has been undergoing great alterations. The exercises of the evening began with a banquet at 6 o'clock under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, the menu comprising turkey soup, roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, hot rolls, olives, jellies with cream, cream pies, ice cream, cake and coffee. About 150 partook. The young ladies of the society acted as waitresses.

The tables were handsomely set with linen, cut glass, and silver, and decorated with cut flowers, and during the banquet music was rendered by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra of Portsmouth. Prayer was offered by Rev. Lytle L. Gaither of Portsmouth. Special speakers for the evening were Dr. George Pickard of Portland and Mr. D. Stanley Evans, also of Portland, and the District superintendent, Dr. D. E. Holt. Remarks were also made by Rev. Wallace Hayse of Boston, Rev. Mr. Wischmair of the No. Kittery Methodist church, Rev. A. J. Hayes and others.

In reference to the remodeling of the vestry, for the benefit of those who were unable to attend last evening, a brief description of the rooms follows: The interior of the vestry has been changed from the form which it presented a few months ago, namely, one main room, with a room formerly used as the kitchen, but abandoned for that purpose when the new kitchen was built in the vestry over a year ago to the following: One main vestry, with kitchen above mentioned. Part of the original vestry has been taken for the installation of three new rooms, two on east side and one on south side, with folding doors opening into the main room. These rooms have been fitted with hard wood floors, and the floor in the main room has been replaced by a hard wood floor. The folding doors in the largest of the new rooms have been fitted with glass panels in their upper portions. Walls of new rooms have been lined appropriately, and they are electric lighted throughout. The entrance from out of doors has been changed from the east side of the church structure to the west side, and a hallway constructed opening into the main vestry. The old stairs leading from the vestry to the upper church rooms have been removed and replaced by new stairs in approximately the same location. The floor in the upper hallway, leading to the auditorium of the church has been replaced by hard wood floor. Space has been prepared for the heater room, which contains the new furnace installed some few months ago.

The rooms as constructed are proposed to be used as class rooms for the Sunday school and for the use of the Ladies' Aid Society, having been duly assigned to their respective uses.

Constitutional Lodge, No. 88, Knights of Pythias, meets this evening. During the heavy wind of Sunday evening the top part of the large stained glass window of the Second Methodist church was blown in.

The W. C. T. U. will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. A. J. Hayes of Bethel street.

Mrs. Charles James of Kittery Depot will entertain the Ladies' Aid of the Second Methodist church on Thursday evening, it being the regular meeting.

Rev. Arnaldo Natta of the Second Methodist church has appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. John H. Wentworth, Miss May Brown and Mrs. Edwin Duncan to co-operate with other committees in their endeavor to secure a large attendance at this church next Sunday on the occasion of Everybody-at-Church.

NEW YORK AND SURROUNDING COUNTRY IS STORM BOUND

Complete Shut Off By Worst Storm For Many Years--Trains All Stopped and the Streets Blocked With Snow.

New York, March 2.—New York is almost isolated from the outside world. Railroad lines are tied up worse than ever before in the history of the city. Telegraph and telephone wires are down, and as a result many trains, many of them big multi-deckers, are as completely lost as a ship at sea before the days of the wireless. Hundreds of thousands of commuters were unable to reach the city. It has snowed steadily since early morning and at 6 p. m. there is no sign of a letup.

Not a single train is coming into or leaving the Pennsylvania station, the big system being tied up completely. So far as New York is concerned, for the first time in the memory of those who tried to travel on its trains today.

A train from Greenwood Lake, consisting of two locomotives and two coaches, entered the Erie station at 8:35 this morning. It was the only train to enter or leave since 5 last night.

Trains from Monticello and Morrisburg are creeping into the Lackawanna station, 40 minutes to an hour late, but this is the only division running trains.

The Long Island Railroad abandoned all attempts to maintain service, and the Jersey Central was at a standstill also.

The New York Central and the New York, New Haven & Hartford roads seemed to suffer less from the storm. Most of their routes were due, it was said, not to drifts which blocked the tracks but to wires, trouble, which made the work of train-dispatching dangerous and made the exercise of unusual care necessary. Boston trains kept arriving only an hour or so late.

The Philadelphia & Reading gas not much, if any, better off than the Pennsylvania. The last train from New York over the Pennsylvania reached Philadelphia about 5 a. m., while the Reading has not seen a New York train since 3:15 a. m. Trains were still sent out eastward at a later hour than this, but none of them reached this city last night.

Not since the blizzard of 1888, which old residents point to as the worst in the history of the city, has a storm resulted in so much suffering. A milk family was the most feared to day because of the suspended train service in New Jersey and New York states.

Slush and Snow Froze Upon Streets.
Nine and one-half inches of snow fell yesterday, and when it stopped a howling gale set in. The temperature which had remained at a few degrees above freezing, dropped many degrees freezing the slush and snow that covered the streets.

With only 50 per cent of the snow from the two previous storms removed from the principal streets, the city street cleaning department faced a new problem today. Already $280,000 have been spent in snow removal work and city officials were unable to make an estimate of the probable cost of the later storm.

In the Pennsylvania railroad station 40 sleeping cars remained on the tracks all night. In them were 800 passengers, many of whom slept peacefully ignorant that they were not on their way to their destinations. In waiting rooms were hundreds of persons waiting for the resumption of traffic.

The storm put nearly every wireless station along the coast hereabouts out of commission, and after 6 last night communication with ships at sea was impossible.

The storm held up liners in the outer harbor all night and menaced shipping along the coast. Two barges sank off Governors Island, both had been torn from their moorings by the gale.

The four-masted schooner Jacob S. Winslow, lumber laden, for Providence from Fernandina, went ashore on Block Island. Her crew of nine was brought ashore by life-savers, but one man returned to the ship later and was drowned. A tug lost four of her tow of barges in Long Island Sound, between Bridgeport and New Haven, and eight persons aboard them were saved with difficulty.

Snow is Again Falling Today.

Snow, which had ceased for a few hours during the night, began falling again early today. The gale is forming big drifts in the country districts and adding to the troubles of the railroad lines.

More than 10,000 men, under direction of the Street Cleaning Department, attacked the snow to keep traffic open in the principal business streets.

Many commuters failed to reach the city at their usual time this morning, owing to crippled train service from New York and New Jersey towns. Many New Jersey trains have been cancelled, and thousands of commuters will be forced to remain at their homes today.

Sennophores Indicated Danger.
It was explained that one reason for the decision to hold up outgoing trains was that the sennophore arrangements on many poles had been damaged so that they were thrown to indicate "danger," and it was "not considered advisable to operate under such conditions. Other signals were so crippled that they could not be operated in the event of danger.

The Congressional Limited, which left Washington about 4 p. m. and was reported six hours later as "missing," was heard from at Trenton, N. J., at 10:45 last night. Officials here could not say when it would reach New York.

Two passenger trains on the Central Railroad of New Jersey were reported marooned beyond Westfield, and the passengers had to stay in the cars until morning. No anxiety was expressed for their comfort, however, as road officials said there would be plenty of heat on the trains.

Fire Alarm System Demoralized.
Fire alarm circuits in Washington Heights, parts of Brooklyn, Queens, Richmond and the Bronx and Jersey City and Hoboken were demoralized. In New York the system was affected only where the wires are carried overhead.

The Western Union Telegraph Company reported that only five of its out-of-town wires were up. The worst of the storm is between New York and Albany, according to dispatches received by the company.

In Newark a short circuited wire resulted in a fire which ate a bad hole in the stands of the Newark International League ball park.

The storm turned from rain to snow at 10 a. m. yesterday and has kept up with fury ever since. Probably 14 or 15 inches of snow have fallen. Last evening the snow on the ground turned to slush. Then it froze. Outdoor New York is now encased in an armor of ice.

Four steamships due to arrive today have not been heard from. It is thought they are lying out at sea, not daring to approach land. The Long Island Railroad is completely tied up having run no trains since early last night. The Pennsylvania Railroad is sending out no trains today. Neither is the Central of New Jersey. Trains from the south and west are "lost" because wires are down. Telephone reports indicate that several dozen important passenger trains on the Big Trunk Lines are stalled, but whether at stations or in the open country the local officials have not been able to find out.

ALBANY'S SITUATION BAD.

Fire Alarm System Dead, Telegraph and Telephone Wires Down, Trains in All Directions Delayed.

Albany, N. Y., March 2.—Reconstruction and reorganization on account of yesterday's storm began here today as early as the public-service corporation could get men at work. Communication with many points outside Albany was wellnigh impossible. Telephone wires were not repaired, and even by a round-about way connections could not be made. Telegraph companies fared no better.

New York Central and Delaware & Hudson Railroad trains in all directions were delayed for hours.

Locally the situation was serious. Not a box in the fire alarm system was connected with the Central Station. Heavily charged wires of the electric lighting company broke, endangering pedestrians and plunging many homes into darkness.

Fear that the ice in the upper Hudson would break loose and cause floods was alleviated by falling temperature at midnight.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a Glass of Salts Before Breakfast If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we eat too much, and at four food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative function clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy; full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Dr. Sato's take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Dr. Sato's is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water beverage and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

INTERVENTION A POSSIBILITY

ought to stand in the way of establishing proper protection for foreigners.

General Carranza's declaration that foreign governments should address themselves to the welfare of their subjects led to a visit to Secretary Bryan today by Sir Cecil Spring Rice, the British ambassador and Senor Riano, the Spanish ambassador. Both Spain and Great Britain have recognized the Huerta government and have been looking to the United States to act for them in northern Mexico.

England Ignores Carranza
There is every indication that this course will be continued and it is clearly established that Carranza's maneuvers will not lead the British government into any recognition of order dealing with him.

President Wilson explained to editors that many foreign governments had declared the United States to look after their subjects, but that of course they had no right to demand it and were not demanding it.

Tomorrow Sir Lionel Gordon, the British minister in Mexico will discuss Mexican affairs with President Wilson, bringing him the latest information about the Huerta government and the situation in Mexico.

Just as President Wilson had decided that the note which Huerta had addressed several days ago to all foreign governments was designed for home and foreign consumption without presentation to the United States, the United States was handed to Secretary Bryan by Charge Alvarez of the Mexican embassy. It is considered unlikely that any answer will be returned to the communication.

Secretary Bryan announced that he would appear before the house committee on foreign affairs on Wednesday.

COUNTRY CLUB GET READY FOR ANNUAL MEETING

A meeting of the Portsmouth Country Club was held on Monday evening in the directors of the directors room of the Portsmouth Trust and Guaranty Company. President Wallace Hackett presided and on motion appointed the following nominating committee, who will bring in a list of officers for the ensuing year: H. D. McDougall, chairman; H. C. Taylor, G. D. Marcy, Gustave Peyser and John K. Bates.

The plans for the annual ball on Easter Monday evening were talked over and it was stated that the club's famous orchestra of Boston had been engaged for the ball. A departure from the former years will be the throwing open of the galleries at a small admission fee to the public.

The members hailed with delight the present rain storm, for they are all anxious to get back on the golf course. Last year it was an open winter and some of the members played every week in the year, but this year there has been no golf since December.

The club is planning to carry on the improvements started last year, when the links were in the best shape since they were laid out. The new ground seeded last fall will show a big improvement and this will be ready to play on in May with reasonable weather.

IMMIGRANTS THROUGH THE CANAL

With the opening of the Panama canal the far western states expect a stream of immigrants from Europe and Asia. The social and economic problems will present themselves simultaneously with this alien colonization is inevitable. The West, however, prodded by Eastern experience, began definite plans for a program of distribution and oversight long before the isthmus was cut.

California particularly, has been preparing for her future citizens. First, the legislature passed the anti-alien land bill, directed especially against Japanese immigrants and intended to protect the native American farmer from foreign competition.

So much controversy was excited by this lengthy second important measure dealing with immigration in California has been somewhat overlooked. This was the creation of a commission of immigration and housing.

The bill authorizing the commission was so framed as to include an indefinite number of powers and duties. It ranges in scope from so specific a matter as investigating the relations existing between immigrant and citizenship and railway ticket agents, steamship and cab men, baggage men, and pawn brokers, to considering and devising means to promote the welfare of the state.

Roughly speaking, however, the functions of the commission may be grouped under four heads.

To provide better industrial opportunities for arriving immigrants.

To extend education at opportunities to both adult and minor aliens.

To secure legal protection for the immigrants and:

To obtain better housing accommodations for foreigners in the city and in

This Lung Remedy Known Fifteen Years

"If everybody who suffers from a cough, throat, or lung trouble would investigate the many cases where recovery was brought about through the use of Dr. Williams' Lung Remedy, a remedy which has stood the test for nearly fifteen years, a strong opinion in favor of it would be the result. What it has accomplished for others it may do for you. Read this:—

"Gentlemen: Last December I took a sudden cold, which developed into pneumonia. The doctor did all he possibly could for me, but could not clear my lungs. One day I saw a testimonial in one of the papers telling of the good results someone had from taking Dr. Williams' Lung Remedy. I bought a bottle and began taking it and soon felt good results. My lungs began to clear up and I began to gain in strength and was soon well enough to take up my work again. I am in better health now than I have been in any time. I am a missionary worker for the New York Home for Homeless and Friendless Boys.

WHITE PINE GROWING IS PROFITABLE

The growing of white pine says the department of agriculture in a bulletin recently issued on the subject in a profitable undertaking at six per cent compound interest. To bring all these returns the trees may be cut when not more than from 35 to 70 years old.

The original white pine forests are approaching exhaustion, according to the department and with the growing scarcity of large sized, high grade white pine lumber, lower grades now find a ready market. Besides this, the tree grows rapidly has a heavy yield and is easy to manage.

Second growth white pine, 50 years old, on good soil, may yield as much as 45,000 feet of lumber per acre. On medium soil, stands of the same, 35,000 board feet, and even on poor soil 24,000 feet. White pine box board lumber one of the chief products of such stands, sets for from $12 to $18 a thousand board feet. Material for making matches another product, sells for from $17 to $18 a thousand. Even larger material, suitable for sashes and blinds, some of which may be cut from a fifty year old stand, brings from $30 to $35 a thousand feet. Second growth white pine, the kind that is found on thousands of abandoned fields and pastures in New England, and that which is spring up after lumbering in many places, where the original white pine forest stood, has a value today says the department, that makes it well worth the attention of the owner.

Too often, caution the forest officers, the farmer or other land owner sells second growth white pine stumpage for less than it is worth because he does not know how much lumber the stand is actually capable of yielding, or else is ignorant of the price the lumber and other products will bring. Too often also, the foresters say, the owner of second growth, fails to realize that perhaps by holding his pine trees for a few years longer, or by thinning it properly at the right time, he can obtain a great deal more and better timber, and consequently a much larger relative return in money, than if he allows it to be cut clear (when the first opportunity offers).

The best second growth white pine board foot per acre but the same stand would free per acre but the same stand when 55 years old, will yield 55,000 feet an increase of 10,000 feet per acre in 10 years. And this is not all, for along with the increase in quantity, comes an increase in quality. Not only more, but better timber is to be had. Counting in this factor of quality, the lumber from an acre of best white pine, 55 years old, is worth about $1,000 against a value of $750 when the stand is 45 years old.

EGGS IN THE FOREIGN COMMERCE OF THE UNITED STATES

Washington, D. C., March 2.—The growing dependence of the United States upon foreign countries for a part of its food supply lends interest to a special statement regarding imports and exports of eggs, prepared by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce.

Imports of eggs in the month of December last amounted to 1,514,286 dozens, or more than in the entire fiscal year which ended with June, 1913. In the fiscal year 1903 the imports amounted to 368,000 dozens; in 1910, 818,000; in 1912, 1,367,000 dozens, and in the first three months under the new tariff law—October, November, and December last—during which period eggs were admitted free of duty, the imports aggregated 1,701,163 dozens, most of them arriving in the month of December. Recent consular advices from China and European ports indicate continued large increases in the shipments of eggs to this country.

Eggs other than those in the natural condition are still subject to duty, though at reduced rates, and these show increasing imports in the brief period for which the monthly figures are at hand. Frozen or preserved eggs, the duty on which is now 2 cents per pound, compared with 5 cents a dozen under the former tariff, show for the last three months of 1913 a total importation of about 1 million pounds, valued at approximately $145,000. Egg yolks, now dutiable at 10 per cent ad valorem instead of 25 per cent, as under the old law, aggregated about 200,000 pounds, and dried eggs, 8,534 pounds for the three months ended with December. In each case the imports were considerably larger than those for the corresponding period of 1912.

"The countries contributing eggs imported into the United States are few in number. Our imported eggs are chiefly the product of China, Siberia, Russia, and southern Europe, those arriving from England and Germany having been for the most part shipped into these countries for resale to foreign markets. Of eggs imported in the natural state, England is the chief nominal source, next in order being China (including Hongkong) and Canada. Frozen eggs are chiefly from England with smaller quantities from Hongkong. Egg yolks come almost exclusively from Germany, which imports large quantities of eggs from the producing centers of Europe and Asia and reexports them in this form to the United States and other parts of the world.

Most of the imported eggs enter through the ports of New York, Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco, Baltimore, Milwaukee, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland, Ore. Hawaii also receives considerable quantities of frozen or preserved eggs from Hongkong, an important distributing point for Chinese products.

Exports of eggs during the year ended with December, 1913, amounted to 17 2/3 million dozens, compared with practically 19 million in 1912, 5 2/3 million in 1910, and 1 1/2 million in 1903, a decade ago. While exports of eggs are still much greater than imports, the closing months of the year showed a distinctly downward tendency in exports and an upward trend in imports of that commodity.

GARDEN LOVEMAKING

There is Jealousy and Rivalry There, Just as in Parlor Variety

The lovelomaking of the garden spider is very interesting to see.

The male spider which can be distinguished from the female by his small size and knobbed palpi, begins by throwing out silk till he manages to make a road between himself and the middle of the female's web. He then runs along this road raising his front legs at intervals. The female remains motionless in the center of the web.

The male then runs to her and rapidly pats her on the back, sometimes with two front legs, sometimes with four. He then returns to his starting point.

Next time perhaps, the female comes to meet him with open arms. He rushes to her, but no sooner has he reached her than she folds up her legs and pretends to be unconscious of his presence. At this he again rapidly pats her on the back. Often when the female is in the middle of her web, he tries to attract her by shaking his silken road as hard as he can.

This courtship takes a very long time. The affair from which I took these notes occupied perhaps two days unless it was that more than one male took part in the performance. The length and monotony of these courtships is however sometimes varied by a rival lover, who in the middle of the courtship suddenly descends on the web by a road of his own; and should he not find the female at home runs along the road on his rival, and often drives him off. In this case the new lover became tired of the courtship very quickly, and in about five minutes went off, allowing the first lover to return—Country Life.

WANTS STATE LAW ON THE TANGO

Boston, March 2.—The so-called "anarchist" dances are finding such great favor that out in Nevada the Indians have abandoned their old-time war dances and turned to the tango and its variations as a far superior pastime, declared Representative Lewis H. Sullivan of Rochester before the Committee on Social Welfare this morning when a hearing was held on his bill seeking to provide punishment by state law of those who dance the tango, home duck, Argentine, chicken flip bunny hub or grizzly slide.

The Representative said that his authority for the news about the Indians was in a dispatch sent from Reno, Nev.

"Everybody's doing it," he went on, "and I appeal to you, in the name of the children of Massachusetts, to put an end to these orgies in public dance halls and in hotel ballrooms alike."

"It is nothing into every degree of society. I went to a dance given by the 1st Corps of Cadets, a while ago, and gentlemen, if I were a police captain I would have broken up that dance if I had to back 100 wagons up against the building. I could read to you for an hour from his book of newspaper clippings telling of injuries and deaths from the vulgarized tango."

"It is not a new dance. In Napoleon's time they called it the 'wild dance.' I would prefer not to discuss here some of the effects of it, particularly upon young girls, but I ask permission to appear before you in executive session."

"I tell you gentlemen, that unless we want to follow ancient Rome all the way, something has got to be done. When we see high school pupils quitting high school dances, as they have done in Quincy and in Watling, because these dances are forbidden, we can no longer dodge our duty as legislators."

Mr. Sullivan was supported by Mrs. Frank W. Page and Mrs. Anna T. Steinhauser.

Mrs. Page denounced the modern dress of the dancing woman. "I cannot understand," she said, "how women can go out upon a ball-room floor so scantily clad. And I blame the men. If I were a man, I should never write my name upon the dance order of one of these indecent women. Only a short time ago I attended what was called a 'very respectable' dancing party. I was never so disgusted in my life. It was nauseating. And it wasn't dancing. It was the objectionable 'pivot' of some years ago."

Mrs. Steinhauser expressed the opinion that if the animal dances are not speedily stopped in this country the effect will be seen in the birth of increasing numbers of feeble-minded children.

Joseph Aloysius O'Brien, who said he represented the "International Association of Masters of Dancing College," having studied for four years under Maurice, was the only speaker in opposition.

"The trouble is not with the dance," Prof. O'Brien said—he came from Lynn—"but with the dancer. 'Vulgar people can make any dance vulgar. People should be educated in the dance if the uneducated attempt a dance they know nothing about you cannot blame us teachers.'"

The hearing was then continued informally for nearly an hour in one of the State House corridors, the professor holding his own against 40 men and women who apparently agreed with Mrs. Steinhauser, Mrs. Page and Lewis H. Sullivan.

Her Feelings Not Mentioned

A minister was in love with a member of his choir. He himself was musically inclined and frequently the two would sing duets. Recently he arose to announce the music for the morning service, and this is what he said in his agitation: "Miss Blank will now sing, 'O, Had I the Wings of a Dove, I Would Fly Away,' accompanied by the pastor."—Lippincott's Magazine.

County Commissioners of Two States
Hold a Meeting Today in Biddeford in Relation to Freeing
Portsmouth Bridge

There is still something doing on the bill bridge proposition and this morning a conference between the York county commissioners and the Rockingham county commissioners was held in Biddeford, Me. Chairman
Norman H. Benson of the local county commissioners returned this afternoon from the conference. He said that he found the York commissioners thoroughly interested in the matter of freeing the Portsmouth bridge.

The conference was arranged to map out a plan for procedure and while only a general discussion followed the meeting proved a step towards the desired end.
Hon. Horace Mitchell presented a petition with several thousand signatures from citizens of York county. It is proposed to have a joint hearing in this city within the next six weeks.
The York board authorized the calling of a public hearing for York county at once.

May Be a Coincidence, But Political Gossips Are Talking.

Senator Hollis and Congressman Stevens are both at home and the fact that they departed at the same time from Washington has started some political whispering.

The ostensible reason for their New England visit is to attend to certain pending legal matters in which they are interested, but rumor has it that they wish to be present at a Democratic conference to be held for the purpose of mapping out the coming campaign.
